'A Boy Named Beulah' Is Junior Presentation

"A Boy Named Beulah," written by Jay Tobias and directed by Nick Schumacher, speech instructor, was presented at 7:30 p.m., Nov. 18 in the high school auditorium.

Corky Corcoran, whose given name is really "Bewley" allows his fabulously rich aunt, Beulah Castleton in England, to believe he is a girl named Beulah after her, so she will make him her heir.

Polly McBride, Cork's girl friend, and her two brothers Hank and Ted, have been willed a spooky old farmhouse by their great-uncle Hiram. Polly, Cork, Hank and Ted want to turn the rundown farmhouse into the Happy Haven Health Farm, but they need $5,0000 to do so. Corky writes his Aunt Beulah and asks her for the money for the farm.

Hank's and Ted's girl-friends, Ava and Nanelle Dunshane bring their stepmother to the health farm and Hank and Ted act like doctors so they can be with Ava and Nanelle more. Scat Katz, a young chemist; Chilford Goldstone and Beulah Zubysko, a woman wrestler, also come to the health resort.

As if this isn't enough Corky's aunt Beulah writes to say that she and her nephew, Bertie are coming.

The Play Cast was: Corky Corcoran --Rich High; Polly McBride--Kathy Ginther; Dr. Hank McBride--Steve Bard; Dr. Ted McBride--Dennis Brungardt; Scat Katz--Jon Thummell; Mrs. Dr. Forest Dushane--Sue Eckart; Ava Dushane--Dalene Roll; Nanelle Dushane: --Carol Moos; Clifford Goldstone--Paul Stagner; Grant Goldstone--Jerry Vopat; Beulah Zubysko--Sarah Johnson; Norce--Delma Marston; Marmalade Jackson--Gayle Gardner; Tang, the Leopard Man--Jay Mongeau; Prompters --Connie Dreiling and Carol Rolfe.

Vampires Invade Senior Play

"I Was a Teen-Age Dracula" was presented by the senior class under the direction of Nick J. Schumacher at 7:30 p.m., March 31, 1967, in the auditorium.

Marlene, who never misses a horror movie on television, and considers herself an authority on bats, vampires, and werewolves, finds a likely suspect when Steve Dracca comes to stay. But Steve who is only a victim of circumstances, soon falls in love with Sue. After much confusion and many laughs, his real identity is discovered.

The cast included: Sue Marshall-Sissy Weir; Pete Marshall-Whitey Kuhn; Enid Purdy-Julie Smrcka; Clyde Purdy-Terry Tennyson; Audrey-Kathleen Cussen; Termite-Scott Stein; Marlene-Leah Moran; Steve Dracca-Marc Mock; Dr. Cole-John Allen; Mrs. Erskine-Toni Wood; Steinbeck-Jim Hutchcraft; Dodo-Charlene Wyant; Jackie-Gaylene Sims; Lola-Karol Edson; Batty-Barbara Harrison. Ends 1st Season Here

This year's Cardinal basketball team posted a 3 and 16 record. The record, however, is misleading because only 14 points separated the Cards from an 8 and 11 record.

Included in these thrilling games were two over-time losses at the hands of Ellis, a two-point decision to the Hays Cadets, and losses to Hill City and Natoma which were decided by only one point.

Head Coach Warren Meireis in his first year, welcomed a very small squad which consisted of only three returning lettermen. This lack of experience and depth resulted in several early season losses.

Another factor in the Cardinal record was the stiff competition. Several teams faced by the Cardinals this year went on to berths in the state tournament.

At the mid-point of the season, several underclassmen moved up to the A-Team. This resulted in a 3 and 6 record and several fine performances during the last half of the season. Although the Cards ended with a poor record, they were well-supported by the Pep Club and local fans.

Scott Stein goes out for two.

B-Team

This year's B-Team posted a 6 and 9 record. They were plagued by bad luck as they lost several games by five points or less. The 15 game schedule and free use of substitutes enabled almost everyone to gain valuable game experience. This is very important because these boys represent the future Big Red basketball team.

Freshmen

The freshmen cagers started out their high school careers under Head Coach Warren Meireis. Although they posted a 2 and 12 record, they displayed some fine basketball talent. They were hampered by the lack of a big post man. Although they had a better team they were sometimes defeated because they could not contain the opponents post man. Three of the freshmen cagers moved up to the B-Team during the later part of the season.

13 Elected To Honor Society

Mr. Williams explains the National Honor Society emblem.

Through the years, thousands of students in more than 10,000 public and private schools have been selected as members of the National Honor Society.

These students have met the high standards of Character, Scholarship, Leadership, and Service maintained by chapters of the National Honor Society.

Not only have they lived exemplary lives within their schools, but these honor students have continued to be motivated by the challenging ideals of the Society.

The Cardinal, therefore, wishes to salute all those PHSers who have gone on to distinguish themselves in the eyes of their fellow men, ever living up to the four ideals: Character, Scholarship, Leadership, and Service.

These are the ideals for which they were recognized while at Plainville High School through election to membership in the National Honor Society.

13 on Cardinal Staff

The 1967 Cardinal staff, composed of thirteen seniors, exerted every possible effort to edit this yearbook. Without the guidance and advice of Mrs. Shari Thomas, this would not have been possible.

They began the year by sending five members of the staff to K-State Journalism camp at Manhattan for one week during summer vacation. They also attended two clinics, one at Great Bend and the other at Hays.

The yearbook staff, which met first hour, spent many grueling hours during and after school in order to meet copy deadlines.

Dan Hrabe and Larry Stamper put up the bulletin board in the front hall. This is one of the extra duties required of the journalism staff.

Staff members Gladys Runyan, Barbara Harrison, Marc Mock and Lois Karst work to meet copy deadline

Seniors Report School News

The Cardinal Booster was published by the third-hour journalism class which consisted of 12 students, all seniors.

The Booster, which came out monthly, was printed by the Plainville Times. All news writing, editing, pictures, page layout, headline writing and proofreading was done by staff members.

Editor Kathleen Cussen attended the annual journalism workshop at Kansas State University last summer. Six staff members attended the annual journalism conference at Fort Hays Kansas State College in September.

STUCO Promotes Interest of Student Body

Melissa Younie was Student Council president for the '66-'67 school year. She was elected after a week of campaigning.

The basic duty of student council representatives is to serve their school to the best of their ability and to act in behalf of the students as their governing body.

The representatives are chosen from their classes and the various school organizations. Each class is represented by two members, and the P-Club, Pep Club, FFA, and FHA selected one student for their STUCO representatives.

Under the guidance of Donald Williams, the student council performs many functions. It plans the programs for all school assemblies, sponsors sock hops, establishes laws for school assemblies and represents the student body in school affairs.

Computer Club

Mathematics Group Learns Computer Techniques

The Computer Club is an organization made up of juniors and seniors at Plainville High School who are interested in learning the concepts of modern mathematics and in learning about the principles and operation of the computer. Under the guidance of Homer Unruh and Jim Venters, the group was taught many new ideas that will be useful to them in later life.

In order to become a member of Computer Club, students must have taken or be presently enrolled in Algebra II, and must be interested in learning about the computer process.

The club travels to Fort Hays State

College, Hays, every other Thursday to use the computer at the college.

There they learn how to program and operate the machine.

Students receiving this training may use it as a basis to continue their education in this area when they go to college.

The computer field is wide open for students who are interested in mathematics. The field offers a variety of challenging and rewarding positions.

The organization has no money-raising projects, nor does it require its members to pay dues since its purpose is purely educational.

FHA Has Largest Membership Ever

Seniors Leah Moran, Melissa Younie, Susy Weir and Donna Williams take part in the annual caroling party.

This year the total membership of the Plainville Chapter of the Future Homemakers of America reached its peak. Under the leadership of President Peggy Malin and the guidance of Mrs. Barbara Klish, sponsor, the FHA sought to make better citizens and homemakers of its members.

FHA is the sponsor for many extra-curricular activities, such as a caroling party, collecting gifts for needy families and is responsible for the Sweetheart Ball and helping with the Cerebral Palsy Drive. Every year approximately 25 per cent of the members travel to Topeka to attend the State meeting. The amount of points earned determines the members who may go.

For the annual Barnwarmer they started the afternoon with an assembly in which the candidates competed in farm activities. Saturday night, Ken Conway crowned Linda Wiesner as Queen.

The FFA year's money-making project was the pancake and sausage supper.

Each year the members honor their parents at a Parent and Son Banquet held at the school cafeteria.

Having participated in many activities, the 1966-67 Pep Club members boosted the PHS athletic teams with enthusiastic school spirit and worked hard to make this year the best ever.

The pepsters played an important part in the school by stimulating school spirit and giving the boys the backing they needed to urge them on to victory. Even a few losses didn't restrain the Pep Club spirit.

Attending all the games and trying to earn enough points to receive a letter kept the girls busy this year along with the annual candy sales.

P-Club Travels to K.C.

The P-Club, composed of the lettermen in various varsity sports was headed this year by President Larry Stamper and sponsored by John Battitori and Warren Meireis. The P-Club had forty members this year, who represented every sport offered at Plainville High School.

The group activities included an overnight trip to watch the K-State and Oklahoma State game at Manhattan and the Kansas City Chiefs and Boston Patriots game at Kansas City. The P-Club also sponsored the Battle of the Sexes. The school year ended with the annual chicken supper for the P-Club and the male faculty members. The money for these activities was earned by the members during two work days.

Cardinal Band

Although the early morning hours somewhat dampened spirits, 45 PHS students enrolled in the Cardinal band.

Under the direction of Carl Schminke, they performed at half-time of home football games and marched in competition at Hays Band Day.

On March 22, the MCL Band Clinic was held here with PHS band members acting as hosts. The state band contest was held in April at Oakley.

This year's highlights were two concerts: the annual Winter Concert in January and the Spring "Pop" Concert.

Letters were awarded to students who did outstanding work. Leah Moran, senior, Kayla Hrabe and Pam Schumacher, both sophomores, led the band as twirlers.

Vocal Department Provides Musical Training

Under the supervision of Joe Dolezal, the vocal department of PHS was composed of four groups including concert choir, boys and girls glee club, and Plainville Singers.

The concert choir participated in the Mid-Continent League Vocal Clinic which was held November 8 at Palco. The choir also attended the State Music Contest April 7 at Oakley.

The Plainville Singers were organized in 1965 by Joe Dolezal to entertain for social gatherings and school functions.

They sing selections from 16th century to contemporary music. The singers sported new outfits this year. Boys were attired in white dinner jackets and the girls in wine-colored full length formals.

The singers are accompanied by Pat Thrasher on the bass violin, David Comeau on the drums, and Donna Williams on the piano.

Largest Class Enrolls at PHS

Another freshman class took its place among the students of PHS as the 1966-67 school year opened. The class of '70 has the distinction of being the largest class enrolled, with 35 girls and 39 boys. The sponsor for the class of '70 was Mr. Larry LaBarge, instructor of Spanish and Latin.

Three grade schools were represented in this class: Codell Grade School, Sacred Heart and Plainville Grade School.

At first, the thought of high school is probably somewhat doubtful, but when school really gets into full swing, the "greenie frosh" have just as much fun as the upper classmen.

There are many outside activities, clubs and organizations in which the freshmen avidly participated. There were 33 freshmen in vocal music, 31 girls in FHA, 35 in Pep Club and 14 boys in FFA.

During their first year in high school, students are required to take English I, physical education, speech, physical science and either Algebra I or general mathematics. Electives include Home Economics I, Industrial Arts I, Vocational Agriculture I, band, Latin I and Spanish I.

As the year progressed, freshmen found their places as high school students.

Class of '69

In 1967, 61 sophomores reached the midpoint on the stairway to graduation. After a year of experience, they have become accustomed to life at PHS. This year they began to shape the image they will carry through their high school years.

The highlight of the year was the selection of their class rings. Other activities included their first money-making project and for many, their first active participation in school activities and organizations. A few of the sophomore girls served at the annual Junior-Senior Banquet.

Next year the class of '69 will fill a new role as upperclassmen. As juniors, they will face many challenging and rewarding experiences. Although their most important high school years lie ahead, 1967 will remain an important year in the lives of this class.

Juniors

Sixty-nine juniors finished their third year at PHS in 1967. This was the biggest year yet for the class of '68. They have been considered "upperclassmen" for a year and have had many new and challenging experiences to face.

A number of special events marked the year for juniors: an all-time high in magazine sales, receiving of class rings, and the excitement of decorating for and attending the annual Junior-Senior Prom. This year's junior play was entitled "A Boy Named Beulah."

The juniors are looking forward to the 1967-68 school year when they will take their places as the oldest and most experienced class at PHS. They stand on the threshold of their most rewarding and most important year in high school. They are prepared to meet the challenge and to play the role of the "high and mighty" senior.

Seniors

The year 1967 will remain an important year in the lives of the seniors. They have reached one of the most important steps on the road to success. In fact, it would seem that they are taking their motto to heart: "To challenge is to conquer; to conquer is to succeed."

Many of the events that highlighted 1967 for seniors were senior pictures, the senior play, the annual junior-senior prom, the choosing of caps and gowns and announcements, and most important, graduation.

For graduation the seniors chose robes of royal blue with white tassels in keeping with their colors, royal blue and silver. The class flower is the white rose.

Graduation was a time of mixed emotions for the seniors contrasting from joy at their successful completion of high school to sorrow at leaving friends and familiar halls of PHS.

Upon leaving, some of the seniors will be furthering their education, some will be working, some will join the Armed Forces, and still others will be entering married life.

Former Classmate Learns to Walk

Although Rex Wise will not be graduating with the Class of '67, he deserves a place among the memories of his classmates.

Rex had to discontinue his schooling following a tragic motor scooter accident in January, 1966. He was thrown into a state of suspended unconsciousness and through medical aid and personal determination, is learning to walk and talk again.

He is shown at right practicing therapy which is intended to strengthen his leg muscles in preparation for wearing a leg brace.

Afterword

The yearbook is finished now, but not forgotten. It is the staff's hope that this edition has succeeded in capturing the phases of school life at PHS.

The Cardinal has meant many things to the staff: working hard to meet deadlines, the disappointments of mistakes, and the satisfaction of viewing the finished product.

Now that it's over, it is our sincere wish that, as the seniors go their separate ways, and as the others climb one more step on the ladder to the future, this yearbook will carry the fondest memories of the year we spent together.

At the close of this school year, the halls are empty, echoing the sounds of years past--just as we hope this Cardinal will continue to echo the memories of '67 for you.
